ING at COP31 in Türkiye

ING will be at COP31 to engage with governments, industry players and other stakeholders to contribute, connect, listen and learn more on financing the energy transition and making electrification bankable, scaling finance for home renovations, and helping our clients in their transitions.

For our thoughts on what to expect this year, please read the new THINK article from ING economists Coco Zhang and Gerben Hieminga.

What is COP?

COP is the United Nations Conference of the Parties. It's an annual global meeting where world leaders, scientists, NGOs and civil society leaders come together to discuss climate change.

At ING we're committed to teaming up with others to help tackle climate change and that's why COP is an important date on ING's sustainability calendar.
